ASNM NEWS

Renewal Reminder: Those of you who still haven't sent in your membership renewal for this year are reminded to do so. As of the board meeting in February, 134 people had renewed, and we had 11 new members. Our total membership last year was 305.

ASNM Annual Meeting: The next ASNM annual meeting will be hosted by the Albuquerque Archaeological Society April 20 through April 22, 2007 (the date was pushed up to accommodate the SAA annual meeting at the end of April). It will be held at the Holiday Inn Hotel & Suites, 5050 Jefferson Street NE, Albuquerque, NM 87109. There is still room for more posters, and the poster submission form is included in this newsletter.

Dr. Linda S. Cordell has agreed present the Bandelier lecture, and there will be a group of scholars presenting a session on Pottery Mound. Fieldtrips will go to Pottery Mound led by Dave Phillips, Petroglyph National Monument led by Milford Fletcher, Behind the Scenes at the Albuquerque Museum led by Tom O'Laughlin, the Maxwell Museum of Anthropology led by Bruce Huckell, and the Cañon Jarido Navajo Star Ceiling and PIII Mesa Pueblo led by Gretchen Obenauf.

Friday, April 20	Registration Reception/Posters
Saturday, April 21	Registration Papers and posters Banquet Bandelier lecturer
Sunday, April 22	Field trips

The cost per room at the motel is $69.95 + tax, and includes breakfast. We get this rate only if enough people sign up, so please make your reservations by April 1st. The phone number is (505) 944-2222, and be sure to mention the conference when you call. Two handicapped rooms are in the block reserved for conference attendees. All information on the annual meeting can be found on the ASNM website at <http://newmexico-archaeology.org/text/calendar.htm>.

ASNM Board Elections: Six candidates are running for the ASNM Board of Trustees.

Karen Armstrong

It's been my privilege to serve on the Board of ASNM, and I'm willing to serve again, hence this bio.

I have the M.A. in Cultural Anthropology, a Phi Beta Kappa key, a teaching credential and many hours of ongoing learning in archaeology/anthropology. I've participated in digs in England, Arizona, California, New Mexico; have been actively involved in PIT projects as well. Also served as President of the Albuquerque Archaeological Society.

For the last 2 1/4 years I have led an archiving project at the Maxwell Museum at UNM, now nearing completion. UNM archaeological field schools at Tijeras Pueblo in the early 1970s produced at least 800 cardboard boxes of artifacts; those boxes have now been sorted into nearly 14,000 ziptop bags of carefully sorted and separated artifact categories and proveniences, each bag has been labeled, re-boxed into archival boxes, and its permanent placement entered onto computer records. Researchers will be able to access any given artifact with ease. Tijeras is a prime site for middle Rio Grande archaeology and my crew and I are pleased to make research into Tijeras' prehistory possible.

The Tijeras crew and I will next tackle the Pottery Mound materials stored at the Maxwell Museum at UNM. Stay tuned.

Bradley Bowman

Bradley F. Bowman was born in Denver, Colorado, and developed an interest in prehistory at an early age. His career in archaeology began in central Texas, with two decades of intense study, including graduate level bioarchaeological studies by invitation of Dr. D. Gentry Steele at Texas A&M University, fieldwork, and published research. Bradley possesses a proficient understanding of archaeological principals, cultural resource management, and public education. He came to New Mexico in 1993 for the purpose of founding an institution whose goals are to directly confront problems that threaten our archaeological resources. He is currently the Director of the Museum of Archaeology and Material Culture in Cedar Crest, a 501(c)(3) institution. Under his direction, museum volunteers are presently involved in educational programs at the Museum and a long-term research and preservation project in western New Mexico. This project has included site surveys, stabilization, excavation, and analysis of human skeletal material, and the founding of a new cemetery to provide safe haven for these and future displaced human remains. Bradley was awarded the New Mexico Heritage Preservation Award in 2002 for his work with human remains associated with the Museum project and work in Bernalillo and Cibola Counties. He currently conducts archaeological investigations in New Mexico under an Annual Human Burial Permit, and is sporadically employed by two Texas firms, Brazos Valley Research Associates and Archaeological Consultants, Inc., as a lithic illustrator and analyst of lithic materials, faunal and human remains.

John Hayden

He served as natural resources manager during most of his career. He was the first Forest Service director of the Ghost Ranch Living Museum. In 1995, John retired from the Forest Service after 33 years of service. Since that time, he formed Renaissance Services. As a consultant, he has performed a wide variety of jobs, including co-authoring an update of the USDA Forest Service Southwestern Region Habitat Typing Guides: 1997 (rev)- Stuever and Hayden -- Plant Associations of Arizona and New Mexico Forests and Woodlands - in two volumes and 2005 Julyan and Stuever editors -- Hayden and Julyan "Chapter 15: Human Presence in the Sandia Mountains", in Field Guide to the Sandia Mountains; University of New Mexico Press, Albuquerque. John is currently active in the Archaeological Society of New Mexico - (President), Torrance County Archaeology Society – (Honorary Life Member), serves on an advisory board for Florence Hawley Ellis Museum of Anthropology/Ruth Hall Museum of Paleontology at Ghost Ranch Conference Center, and serves on the Friends of Tijeras Pueblo Board of Directors. He also was an active member of the Albuquerque Archaeology Society – (Past President, twice). John has qualified for grades in the ASNM Certification program and continues to work toward its highest level. He was awarded ASNM's "Amateur Achievement Award" in 1977.

Franklin Hayward

Hayward's academic background includes undergraduate studies in Anthropology at American University, followed by graduate work in Arizona at the University of Arizona, Tucson. His Ph.D. dissertation involved the excavation and analysis of a major Hohokam-Salado site in the San Pedro Valley. Between 1974 and 1980 he directed the ceramics lab at Salmon Ruin, a large prehistoric pueblo near Bloomfield, NM. After a year as a student at Albuquerque T-VI, he was hired as an instructor in Computer Programming, and remained on the faculty until his retirement in 2005. In a separate but "parallel" career, Hayward analyzed and wrote about ceramics for a number of major contract projects, most of them connected with OCA at the University of New Mexico. He was ceramic analyst on projects at Cuchillo Wash, Valencia Pueblo, and numerous smaller projects. Recently, he completed analysis of 1700's ceramics from Los Ranchos Plaza, in Albuquerque, now in press. Since his retirement from teaching, he has been engaged in an intensive analysis of Pottery Mound Glazeware ceramics. As a Research Associate at the Maxwell Museum, he works closely with David Phillips and the Friends of Tijeras Pueblo in his continuing research.

Arlette Miller

Arlette has been a member of the Albuquerque Archaeological Society since 1984, participating in rock art recording activities and the Heaton Canyon dig, and is a recipient of the Archaeological Achievement Award. She has frequently served on the AAS board and is currently a director-at-large. She is a past member of the ASNM board.

Nancy Woodworth

Member of ASNM since 1990. ASNM board member since 1998 to 2003 and 2004 to 2007, Archaeological Achievement Awards and nominating committee; chaired the 1999 Annual ASNM meeting in Albuquerque and co-chaired the 2001 Annual ASNM meeting in Moriarty. Attended ASNM Field School at the Vidal Site near Gallup; have conducted and participated in numerous training sessions, seminars and field trips. Member of the Albuquerque Archaeological Society; past vice president, president and director-at-large of the Albuquerque Archaeological Society and past Program Chairman of the Torrance County Archaeological Society in Estancia. Current president of the Friends of Tijeras Pueblo, developed the on-going Lecture Series, children and adult education programs, and out-reach community programs. Have done volunteer work with the Sandia Ranger Station since 1990 and conduct interpretive tours at Tijeras Pueblo.

Please select four people on the ballot on page 7. Family memberships are entitled to submit two ballots. Please send your completed ballot(s) to ASNM at PO Box 3485, Albuquerque, NM 87190-3485 by April 13th, or submit them at the state meeting in Albuquerque April 20th.

Annual volumes: This year's annual volume honors Jack and Carol Hedrick, and will have fifteen papers in it. F. Joan Mathien was chosen as the honoree of next year's volume.

Audit and Treasurer's Report: On February 9, 2007 the Budget and Finance Committee Dick Bice, Phil Davis, and John Roney reviewed the 2006 financial records for the Archaeological Society of New Mexico. The records are current, accurate, and are being maintained in a business-like manner.

Anna Walters presented her proposed budget for 2007, which was approved.

Other News from ASNM Board Meeting: The meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in Socorro February 10th, 2007.

Board Alternate Gary Hein replaces Dedie Snow on the board, and alternate Tina Joslin replaces Ann Francis. Tina was also elected to replace Ann as secretary.

The Certification Council is working on electronic versions of their seminars, etc. which will eventually be posted on the web. The council is in need of alternate members.

So far there has only been one applicant for the ASNM scholarship. Members are encouraged to share information about the scholarship to eligible applicants for next year.

The 2007 Archaeology Fair will be held in Grants in October. ASNM will contribute $200 towards the state's Heritage Preservation Month poster.

Other News

Petroglyph Sites Listed in the National Register of Historic Places: Summerford Mountain Archaeological District in the Dona Ana Mountains has been added to the National Register of Historic Places. The district covers more than 21-hundred acres owned by the Chihuahuan Desert Rangeland Research Center at New Mexico State University. The sites are unique for their association of rock imagery with archaeological deposits and artifacts and the style of the rock art, which differs from that in the northern portion of the state.

Center for New Mexico Archaeology: Updates and a floor plan of the Center for New Mexico Archaeology can be seen on ASNM's website at <http://newmexico-archaeology.org/text/cnma.htm>.

Chaco Digital Initiative: Scanned versions of field notes from the excavations of Bc 50, 51, and 53 at Chaco and other unique resources are available at http://www.chacoarchive.org/chaco\_texts.html. Additional texts and a searchable database are in progress.
